In the fall 2012 semester, Cayuga Community College will come home to a place it's never been before. That place is the River Glen Plaza in Fulton, the site of the College's new Fulton Campus.

The opening of River Glen is the next chapter in a story that began nearly 20 years ago. In 1994, Cayuga began offering courses to 97 students in two rented rooms in the basement of the Fulton Education Center. We soon moved to the former Holy Family Parish School in Fulton, then to the former Jamesway on West Broadway/Route 3. By 2006, enrollment had jumped to 1,106 students. Today, campus enrollment in Fulton is more than 1,260 and growing.

As the College outgrew Broadway, we went looking for a new home. “I can tell you that my senior staff and I drove all over Oswego County,” said College President Dr. Daniel Larson. “We looked at just about everything that was available, from speedways to buildings that had been vacant for 20 years. In the end, we agreed that River Glen was the ideal site for our future plans.”

In March 2011, the Cayuga County Legislature approved the purchase agreement for the former P&C Foods building in the River Glen Plaza. A month later the Legislature approved the purchase of 45 acres of undeveloped land adjacent to River Glen. The final piece of the puzzle was put in place in November, when the CCCF River Glen Holdings (a subsidiary of the CCC Foundation) purchased the balance of the Plaza.

“We were very pleased to receive the support of the College Foundation in helping us realize this goal,” said Dr. Larson. “Cayuga is now the master of its own fate in Oswego County. Our long-term vision for Fulton includes athletic fields, child care facilities, performance areas, and possibly student housing. River Glen gives us the ability to grow into the full-service campus our students deserve.”

College Foundation President Lloyd Hoskins stated that “The mission of the Foundation is to support the College and its students. The College made it clear that the Fulton campus expansion was its top priority right now, and we were very happy to support the project.”

River Glen makes for an attractive collegiate setting. It sits on a hill at the intersection of Interstate 481, a major divided highway, and Route 57 at the southeast end of Fulton. The entrance to the property is highly visible, and controlled by a traffic light. The plaza has 896 parking spots.

Maggie Killoran, Associate Vice President and Dean of the Fulton Campus, said she is excited to see momentum building for the new campus. “This project reflects the enthusiasm and anticipation the Fulton Campus community is feeling about the College,” Killoran said. “The College is not only creating a space to meet our immediate needs, but also thinking of the long-term prosperity of this campus.”

“In addition to educating thousands of students, the expansion will also help jumpstart the local economy by streaming millions of dollars into Fulton and Oswego County in the form of salaries, equipment, supplies and materials and related spending,” Dr. Larson added.

“I have seen many changes in

Many underestimate their ability rather than just making the "Get Inspired" more proactive and understanding. Hopefully, we often hear all the triggers a desire to get inspired by whatever your personal aspirations might be. We often hear all the reasons why people can't do something or why you might read something that doesn't make you feel that kind of thing; "I don't have the time," "I don't have the money," "I'm too old to do that kind of thing," "I don't have anyone to go with." I got the inspiration for this letter on a trip I recently took. One of my travel companions told me about Ann from Pocatello, Idaho, his seatmate on the plane. He asked her where she was heading and she told him India and Nepal for a three-week adventure. He asked if she traveled a lot and she told him she had been to all 50 states. He asked how many countries she had visited and she replied "about 30." After a slight pause she added, "Well, I was counting on my fingers and I'm up to 40." The woman was a widow and was traveling with her friend, whose name, coincidentally was Louise. Louise had cared for her ill husband for 15 years and since he had passed away, she welcomed the opportunity to accompany her friend. We were about to land at JFK, so Ann asked what they should do on their two-day layover in New York City. She wondered if carriage rides were offered in Central Park during the winter. Among other things, they wanted to visit the Guggenheim Museum, and were ready and eager to take on New York City for the "big adventure" began.

Ann is 85 years old.

Dear Cayuga Community College Alumni and Friends,

In 1953, the Auburn Board of Education took a momentous step in the area of college education by chartering Auburn Community College. From its humble beginning at what was then James Street Elementary School, to the building and opening of the Franklin Street campus in 1959, and now to the $16 million campus construction in Fulton, NY, it has been quite a journey. ACC/CFC has enjoyed much success in the world of college education and has grown steadily over the past 50-plus years without becoming too large and impersonal. The College has maintained a family-type atmosphere while keeping standards and expectations high. In past letters, I have mentioned how important ACC was to my generation with respect to providing “opportunity.” That same value exists today and, in fact, is being expanded as the growth of our Fulton campus. Educational opportunity continues to be the best way for our country to compete internationally and afford our children a fulfilling life. At the risk of sounding redundant, we are indeed fortunate to have Cayuga Community College in our midst. The contributions of ACC/CFC graduates in virtually every field of endeavor across the nation and abroad are too numerous to mention; the potential impact of future alumni is tremendous.

All of us have had the honor to be a part of the ACC/CFC family, and we enjoy the many activities and experiences coordinated by our Alumni Association under the leadership of Louise Wilson, with assistance from Mary Kriever and the Alumni Board. Please participate in your Alumni Association. Demonstrate your appreciation by donating to the Annual Fund. Get involved in alumni activities. Sign up for a free subscription to our e-magazine, Get Inspired, and continue to read this newsletter to keep up to date on college activities as well as what other alumni are doing. And remember, all alumni are welcome at our board meetings held on the second Tuesday of the month.

Thank you.

Currently busy preparing for her NYS Teacher Certification exams, Betty is looking forward to pursuing a master's in literacy at SUNY Cortland.

While at CCC Betty had the opportunity to participate in an internship in the NYS Senate, and knew then that she wanted to give back to her community. At this time she is an elected Town Official in the Town of Locke, volunteers as a Cayuga County Youth Football Board Member, and is a new member of the CCC Alumni Board. Betty also volunteers at her children's school for their individual classes.

Betty believes the best thing about volunteering is that she is teaching her children about giving back to their community. They often volunteer with her. Gettysburg—The Trip—The Battle

Roberta “Bobbie” Bellnier ’89

This entire Gettysburg experience, sponsored by the Auburn/Cayuga Community College Alumni Association and led by John Lamphere, assisted by Lori Cochran, was fascinating, well-planned, and informative for all participants—young, old, men, women, and children. Lamphere, with his superior knowledge of the Civil War and especially the Battle of Gettysburg, introduces you to the soldiers by name and reputation—their victories, their defeats, their faults and indiscretions. In his research he has gleaned personal stories of many of the characters and shares these stories with us.

There you are, on the battlefield with John Lamphere—Confederate Army clashes with the Union Army; South meets North. You are an officer, a soldier, a chaplain, a musician, a wagoner—you are ready for battle. You are part of an artillery team, a surgeon, a nurse, a resident farmer, an innocent bystander and you are part of a three-day battle fought in the summer of 1863—July 1st, 2nd and 3rd. You are running with a bayonet so close to your enemy you can look him in the eye; you are running away from the enemy; you are wounded, hungry, thirsty, tired, your clothes are in tatters, and your feet are sore and bleeding. You are privy to every battle—you know where your troops are, where the enemy troops are, the look-outs, the couriers, the field hospitals, the cemeteries. John does this for you—making the war come to life and placing you exactly where each firefight took place, introducing you to the warriors—some who retreated and some who charged in battle.

The culmination of the battlefield experience is the 17-acre National Cemetery where President Abraham Lincoln on November 19, 1863 made his Gettysburg Address. Emotions ran deep while standing on this hallowed ground, and this day more than a tear or two was shed. We placed pennies, Lincoln side up, on President Lincoln’s monument. John asked the youngest person there, a twelve-year-old, to read the Gettysburg Address, and he read to us brilliantly with Lincoln looking on in the background.

Yes, John, you did this for us. John, in the handout booklet, states, “I believe I have sorted out fact from fiction and will only be telling you the truth. Attending events such as this will ensure we will always remember and appreciate the actions from those who served on both sides during those three days here...it is my hope that you return with a new sense of history, and a better understanding of what really happened here for that fateful three days...”

On Columbus Day weekend the Alumni traveled to Boston. It was the most beautiful weather and all had a great time. Many trip goers enjoyed visiting the historic sites, such as the Old North Church and Quincy Market. Harbor tours were popular and, of course, the fresh seafood dinners. There is so much to see and do in Boston, like the New England Aquarium which several of us decided to visit. The old cemeteries were popular and it is quite something to read the dates and see names such as Paul Revere. Some of us also saw a movie being shot in the streets of Boston. While this added to the congested traffic, it was more notable to see the huge production of car crashes and explosions. Fun was had by all.

Please join us on one of our future excursions. This year we will be traveling to Toronto, Gettysburg, and twice to New York City. You won’t be disappointed.

Lori Cochran ’05

Translation...We sure had a good time in Boston. It felt like summer. The weather was warm; cars were bumper to bumper forever. Foreigners were everywhere. We New Yorkers enjoyed lobster, chowder and beer. We walked along the harbor to keep cool by the water.

Spring/Summer 2012
Alumni Trip Reports

The Big Apple Revisited

New York City is a place of diverse contrasts. During our annual fall overnight outing in November, a full bus of ACC/CCC alumni and friends saw first-hand the many faces the city wears. The motor coach delivered us to our hotel in midtown Manhattan for our two-day, one-night adventure. Shortly after we arrived, everyone dispersed in all directions to do their own thing. Many went to Broadway plays, museums, and, of course, aided the local economy with shopping therapy. There were several who walked many miles including yours truly, who wished she wore her CCC Fitness Challenge pedometer to document exactly how many. All I can say is that I walked most of the distance from Central Park to Ground Zero, and from the river to the Brooklyn Bridge, and lots in between.

There was one particular contrast that was eye opening. Within a few blocks from each other, hundreds of people lined up in a seemingly endless queue to visit the Ground Zero memorial. Just a short distance away, hundreds of people were demonstrating at the Occupy Wall Street encampment. A real contrast of emotions was showing in both locations. But that’s the kind of thing that makes this trip interesting. It doesn’t matter how many times you visit the city, you can be assured of seeing something new and different that you may never have seen before.

We welcome you to join us on this year’s trip to the city. We will be leaving on Saturday morning, November 10, and will return early evening on Sunday. The trip goes on sale August 13. Call Mary or me in the Alumni office if you would like more information: 315.255.1743 extension 2224 or 2454.

Dear Alumni and Friends of ACC/CCC,

Someone once told me that "Investments are a prayer, not a promise." Whatever we choose to invest in, there are no guarantees. We should, however, believe within ourselves that our investment will lead to future success. During 2011 the Cayuga Community College Foundation made its biggest investment ever in the future of the College. We purchased the majority of the former River Glen Plaza as the new home for CCC's Fulton Campus. Our first foray into real estate ownership was far from simple, and there were times when we seriously considered turning back.

Several of the leaders on the Foundation Board who helped sort out all the details were ACC/CCC alumni: Joanne Dulser, Tony Franceschelli, Lloyd Hoskins and Loraine Miller. Alumnus Stan (Stas') Kott played the dual role of Foundation Director and College Trustee. Assisting these graduates on this project, I am proud to note, are the numerous CCC staff in Auburn and Fulton who also are our alumni. I wish to thank all of them, along with my non-alumni Foundation Directors, for their countless hours of work and for asking the tough questions throughout this process.

Now that the CCC Foundation has purchased River Glen, we are working to maximize its promise to Cayuga's students, faculty and staff. In the same manner that the Foundation has invested in River Glen, I ask you to join us by investing in Cayuga's students. Your support for education at Cayuga Community College makes all the difference to today's students. Your gifts help turn their prayers into promises.

In the Cayuga Spirit,
Jeff Hoffman
Foundation Executive Director

He is a member of the ACC/CCC Alumni Board, Second Vice President/Regional Director of the Association of NY State Youth Bureaus, member of the CSEA Scholarship Selection Committee and Coordinated Children's Services Initiative Tier II. Father-Son Authors Speak at Fulton Campus

In October 2011, Bernie and Jon Whalen '64 appeared at CCC’s Fulton Campus to discuss their book Justifiable Homicide. Their appearance was made possible by the CCC Foundation, the Criminal Justice Society and the Literary Club.

The Whalens’ morning presentation to students focused on the art, science and business of becoming a published author. “The first rule of writing is, ‘do what you know,’” said Bernie. “I was a New York City cop, while my dad [Jon] worked at Auburn prison. So, our book is set in New York with a lot of references to Auburn, and to life in prison.” For details beyond their areas of expertise, the Whalens consulted experts in the New York City Bomb Squad and others who had first-hand knowledge of the topic. “People catch every detail,” noted Jon. They’ll call you on anything that they think is a mistake, from the size of the Unisphere in Queens to the height of ‘Copper John’ at the prison.”

One of the most important traits of a successful writer is patience. “All writing is re-writing,” said Bernie. “We re-wrote every chapter, every scene, many times. One nice thing about all the work is that it brought us closer together as father and son.”

The Whalens emphasized the importance of character development. Jon noted, “It’s more than just a plot line. People want to care about the people in your book. And in our case, the City itself became a character in the novel.” “Conflict is also a key component of fiction writing,” continued Bernie. “In our book, it’s the question of wanting to have someone killed. When is homicide really justifiable? That’s one that the reader needs to answer for himself.”

At their evening event, the Whalens spoke to the campus community and the general public about their work. They talked about the difficulties of getting published. Bernie said, “Try the Mystery Writers of America first. They will often review a book, free of charge. If you really want to write, you can always find an outlet.” They also discussed their lives before becoming authors, as members of the criminal justice system. “We’ve both seen a lot,” said Bernie. “For cops, humor is sometimes our only defense mechanism. Call it ‘gallows humor’ or whatever, but sometimes you really need it.”

More information on Bernie and Jon Whalen and on their books, including Justifiable Homicide, may be found at their website http://www.bjwhelan.com/
World-Renowned Samite is 2012 Brunell Visiting Scholar

The Brunell Chair in the Humanities and Cayuga Community College

Professor Robert H. Brunell taught at Cayuga Community College for 50 years. Prior to his passing in 2004, he established a fund to bring a visiting scholar to the College for one semester, every other year. As stated in the original agreement, this chair was established “to invite a distinguished and noted author or artist to be in residence and actively teaching and interacting with students and faculty at the College.” The artist/teacher-in-residence is chosen by the humanities faculty at the College and the program is administered by the Cayuga Community College Foundation.

The first Brunell Visiting Scholar at the College was Christopher Kennedy, Director of the M.F.A. Program at Syracuse University in Creative Writing.

“The Brunell Chair in the Humanities may be the only one of this breadth and scope among American community college foundations,” said Foundation Executive Director Jeff Hoffman. “Typically a visiting scholar may come for a day or two, possibly a week. Professor Brunell’s generosity allows the CCC Foundation to provide a semester-long series of events to benefit our students, faculty and communities.”

As the result of family tragedy and the killing of his brother, he was forced to flee to Kenya as a political refugee in 1982. He described life in the refugee camp there and spoke about the people he encountered from many countries and walks of life.

In 1997, Samite took part in a PBS documentary depicting the plight of refugees in Africa. He joined the team and visited Liberia, Rwanda and Cote D’Ivoire. He was also able to return to Uganda and be reunited with his family for the first time in many years. It was during the filming that he realized he was destined to spread peace and offer hope through music, which is exactly what he did at CCC.

Samite is also a photographer and spoke at the opening of an exhibition of his work at The Library Gallery @ 197, in the Bourke Memorial Library on the Auburn campus. The exhibit is free and open to the public and will be on display through the first week of March.

Samite hopes “that when people see my photographs, they get the sense of peace and calmness that I felt while I captured the images.”

Samite has released 10 CDs, including the soundtrack for the film Addiction Incorporated. He is the subject of the documentary, Song of the Refugee. In addition, Samite is a recipient of the Save the Children’s Global Partnership Prize and is the artist/teacher-in-residence of the Brunell Chair.

The power of music is more than an expression; it is a way of life for Samite. He has performed throughout the world. During his visit to the College, he performed for the community and performed for the CDC student chorus. He also spoke to the students about his own life and how he became a musician. He has been a teacher for many years and is still teaching today.

CAYUGA’S NEWEST HOME

Fulton over the years, “Fulton Mayor Ron Woodward said. “I never dreamed there would be a college at River Glen some day. It’s going to spur more business opportunities in Fulton.”

“This is a great addition to Oswego County,” said Legislator Terry Wilbur, a 2008 graduate of the Fulton Campus. “As a member of the CCC Alumni Board, I think it is a great step forward. We have a lot of confidence in Cayuga Community College and think it will be a big boost for Oswego County.”

A CCC education is “the best bang for the buck,” Wilbur continued, referring to the 70 percent of graduates who remain in the area to live and work. “I am one of the ones who stayed here. Right now, with the hard times, people are looking for new careers. They have to be educated and Cayuga Community College can do that right in our own back yard.”

At the groundbreaking ceremony in December, Michael Fochtman, student and president of the Fulton Campus Student Government Organization said, “This institution, students, faculty and staff are amazing. I have a better direction now; I know where I’m going. I’m going to do. It is because of this institution. The students have taken ownership of this expansion and we appreciate that from the bottom of our hearts. We truly do,” he told the audience.

Where do we go from here? After moving three times in 18 years, Cayuga is “here to stay” at River Glen. Dr. Larson noted that this new campus will serve our students, communities and alumni well into the middle of the 21st Century.

“IT would be exciting to come back here in 50 years to see how the campus had grown. There is no reason why this campus shouldn’t have 2,500 students, or 3,000 students.”

Editor’s Note: Subscribers of the Alumni Association’s e-magazine ‘Get Inspired’ can see more photos from the dedication ceremony, as well as the video of Jeff Hoffman’s “River Glen” song. For more details on ‘Get Inspired’, contact the Alumni office at alumni@cayuga-cc.edu.

Barry Leemann, then-chair of the Oswego County Legislature, was one of the many participants to sign a structural steel beam that will be placed within the building.

Alumni Participate in Experiential Learning Program

It is a well-documented fact that experience has a great impact on learning. CCC is providing opportunities for our future alumni to participate in hands-on work and service experiences that allow them to test concepts and ideas while giving back to the community. Faculty members help students to seek out internships and service learning experiences. CCC has secured funding from the AmeriCorps VISTA program to host a VISTA volunteer for one year while that person develops and deepens campus/community partnerships to benefit students and the community.

Last spring, Sheila Myers was hired to serve as coordinator of experiential learning. The ACC/Cubby Alumni Association has joined with Sheila to offer a program called Alumni Voices. The first joint project was a panel discussion held on February 29 in the Irene A. Bisgrove Theatre on the Auburn campus. The discussion was titled “Alumni Voices: Community Service and Leadership.” Alumni panelists included Marilyn R. Higgins ’73, Gerard Guiney ’82, and Terry Wilbur ’08. Ms. Higgins is Vice President of Community Engagement and Economic Development at Syracuse University. Before his retirement, Mr. Guiney served as the Deputy Superintendent of the New York State Department of Correctional Services. Last November, Mr. Wilbur, a recent graduate of the State University College at Oswego, was re-elected to serve his second term on the Oswego County Legislature.

We are pleased to have these individuals share their time and experiences with our students. Hopefully, this panel was the first of many covering a variety of topics to benefit our students.

CCC Participates in Empty Bowls Project

Students, faculty and staff at CCC can often be found participating in community service projects, one in particular was the Empty Bowls fundraiser. The event held last October was an effort in helping to beat hunger in our community, as well as being a teaching project for our students. Under the direction of Jennifer Gandel, CCC Ceramics instructor, students and employees helped create bowls. When their work was completed, the Studio Art & Design program donated 55 bowls to the project. At the event, participants could eat a bowl of soup and then take their empty bowl home with them. It created a reminder that there are many people who have an empty bowl every day. Each of the bowls was signed with “CCC” on the bottom.

Country in Crisis: Cayuga Responds

In commemoration of the 10th anniversary of the terrorist attacks of September 11, CCC was part of a statewide recognition called New York Remembers. A powerful display depicting the collapse of the Towers, as well as Ground Zero artifacts from the collections of the State Museum and National September 11 Memorial & Museum were open to the public for viewing.

The Auburn campus was accorded the privilege of displaying a large piece of the exterior aluminum sheathing that was part of the World Trade Center. On August 31, 2011, College President Daniel Larson welcomed local dignitaries, representatives from Governor Cuomo’s office, college administration and faculty, and community members to officially open the exhibit.

The college’s Institute for the Application of Geospatial Technology was instrumental in printing the first satellite images of Ground Zero for emergency workers at the scene. Robert Brower, director of IAGT, gave a presentation on the Institute’s involvement.

On September 9, the college welcomed Lt. Gov. Robert Duffy when he visited the “New York Remembers” exhibit. He was joined by New York State Senator Michael F. Nozzolio (54th District); Auburn Mayor Michael Quill; some of Cayuga County’s first responders; and Eric Pittman, father of Skaneateles native Christopher Todd Pittman, who died in the Twin Towers during the 9/11 attacks. The public was welcomed to hear their inspiring words.

Accounting/Business Alumni

There are many aspects to the business world and graduating with a Business Administration or Business/Accounting degree from CCC has been the gateway to many successful careers for our alumni. They gain distinction by receiving special recognition for their professional achievements, which makes these individuals more than just successful. They become not only an invaluable asset to their respective community but also a great representative of our college. We would like to share the success stories of five such individuals, who have chosen to make a career, as well as a name for themselves, in the fields of finance, business and accounting.

Alice M. (Warren) Hoatland, CPA, ’70

Alice has a long-standing connection to CCC. She served on the CCC Alumni Board for nine years, and was past president and treasurer. In addition, Alice was one of the Alumi Award recipients in 1997 and received the SUNY Alumni Honor Roll the same year. She continues her association with CCC on an annual basis with her visits to the Intermediate Accounting class where she and other accounting professional mentor students about accounting career choices. This “CPA Round Table” gathers four local CPAs who discuss the many facets of accounting from courses and education, to what degrees to obtain, to positions available, and to resumes and interviewing techniques. She also attends the annual Accounting Banquet for CCC grads. She is partner in charge of tax, estate and financial planning at Baumgart & Hoatland CPA, PLLC. Following CCC, Hoatland attended Le Moyne College where she earned her B.S. in Accounting. Licensed since 1984, she is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants. With over thirty years’ experience as a CPA in small business consulting and taxation, Alice has recently drawn the attention of the Cayuga County Chamber of Commerce. This past November, she, along with her business partner Elaine S. Buffettington, received the 2011 Phyllis Gove Community Service Award. This award was created to recognize women who have pursued an entrepreneurial endeavor and encourage other women to do the same. Hoatland was also recognized with the Cayuga County Chamber of Commerce Small Business Person of the Year Award in 2005. Alice is actively involved in various professional and local school organizations. She is member of the Cayuga Community Fund, CNY Community Foundation, and serves on its Leadership Committee. Hoatland has served on the Auburn Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees, is currently on the Finance Committee, and has served as the board’s vice president and treasurer. She is also on the Hospital Systems Foundation Board, serves on its Planned Giving Committee, and has held office as vice president of its Finance Committee. Currently, she is a member of both the Cayuga County and Skaneateles Chateles Club's of Commerce. Alice has been married to Robert for 41 years and they have lived in the Auburn area their entire lives. They have a son Benjamin who also lives in Auburn with his wife Elise. Alice enjoys history, reading, golf and her cats. She recently remarried. “I loved my years at CCC and enjoy coming back each year to partake in the panel discussions for the accounting students.”

Rhonda C. Hutchinson, CPA, ’01

At a recent tax seminar, Professor Dawn Matijas-Czolowski recognized former accounting student, Rhonda. Rhonda had been working full time while attending CCC part time in the evenings. Although her degree was in liberal arts, by the time she had gotten to graduation, having had several accounting courses with Matijas, she quickly decided that she wanted a career in accounting. Following her graduation, she joined the SUNY Oswego accounting program. Her education at CCC, Hutchinson says, “The foundation is the reason I was able to make me prepared better than many of my classmates entering the difficult upper-level accounting courses.” She received her Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting with Economics Concentration from SUNY-Oswego. Rhonda started working as a staff accountant in 2004 for Lavelle, Schoder & Walker, P.C. in Mt. Morris, NY, and began to study for her CPA exam. After successfully passing her CPA exam (with high scores), Hutchinson went to work for Robinson & Gordon, P.C. in Rochester, NY in 2005. The position allowed her to increase her responsibilities to include a wider range of duties.

Nichole M. Hogan ’04

In September 2007 Nichole joined Emdowy, Burke and Brown, CPA, LLC, as an audit associate. This past November she was promoted to Senior Tax Associate at the Auburn firm where she specializes in planning and executing reviews and compilations. In addition, she prepares personal, corporate and partnership returns for clients, including for-profit, not-for-profit, and consolidated entities. Additionally, she has experience and is proficient in completing school district audits and construction schedules. She is currently a member of the AICPA.

Nichole participates in various charitable organizations, including United Way, the ALS Association, the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, and Ducks Unlimited. Her life will soon become much busier as she has recently become engaged to be married and will welcome two stepchildren, ages 6 and 9, as well as two dogs and one cat. In free time, Nichole and her fiancé enjoy boating, snowmobiling, hunting and fishing.

Gail M. (Koon) Kinsella, CPA, ’83

Gail graduated from CCC with her degree in Business Administration and a minor in Accounting. Upon earning her education at Le Moyne College, and became a CPA. In May 2011 Gail was installed as President-elect of the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants (NYSSCPA), just the fifth woman in the 114-year history of the Society to serve in this capacity. NYSSCPA is the oldest state accounting organization in the nation, presently representing more than 28,000 CPAs.

A partner in the Audit Practice Group at Testone, Marshall & Discena, LLP accounting firm in Syracuse, Gail coordinates the firm’s Quality Control and Peer Review programs. Her career integrates a range of expertise in auditing, accounting and consulting services for not-for-profit organizations, municipalities, Employee Benefits Plans, and closely held entities.

In addition to NYSSCPA, she is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) and the New York State Government Finance Officers Association (NYSGFOA). She has served NYSSCPA in a variety of roles including vice president and member of its Executive Committee. Gail also serves as former Chair of the Ethics and Professional Conduct Committee. Selections Committee Chair, Joyce Chapter president, Chapter Executive Committee member, and as past president of the Foundation for Accounting Education.

Michael E. Cuddy ’78

Mike graduated from ACC as a Business-Accounting major and has over 25 years experience in the financial planning field. Mike is First Vice President/Financial Advisor at the Auburn office of Pennino Investments, LLC. In 2007, Mike and two colleagues formed a team, The Cuddy Group, which combined their business experiences in insurance, retirement planning and wealth management. At the time the Group was associated with a global financial services firm. In early January 2009, the Group decided to end their affiliation and spent months researching various firms who had specific key qualities they were seeking. Their search culminated in July of that year when the group decided to join Pennino Investments, LLC. One of the largest independent full service investment firms in Central New York. Mike states that this was the best move his group could have made. Their Auburn office has subsequently grown and now has four financial advisors available to assist clients along with two support staff.

Cuddy has developed the skills and knowledge necessary to make him a dedicated and trusted financial professional. He focuses his business on designing professionally managed portfolios, creating retirement planning solutions and looking for new business opportunities. Mike possesses one of the most important skills when working with new or existing clients – the ability to listen to and understand what goals, values, aspirations and concerns are of utmost importance. These abilities have enabled him to develop investment plans tailored to help his clients meet their long-term financial objectives. As a lifelong resident of Auburn, Cuddy’s strong leadership skills have helped him to become involved in the community. He is past president of the United Way Board of Directors and served as chair of its 2002 fund-raising Campaign. He has been active in the St. Alphonsus parish, serving as co-chair of the Partners in Faith campaign, and as a treasurer and coach in the CYO program. Mike is an avid golfer, softball and basketball player and participates in numerous leagues. Mike and his wife, Lisa M. Cuddy, “Cuddy ’80”, a reading and writing teacher at Lafayette School District, have been married for over 25 years. They have two grown children. Reflecting on how his time in college has affected his career decisions, Cuddy shares: "I was a treasured mentor of ACC.”

Nichole M. Hogan ’04

Like taking snapshot, we enjoy visiting our alumni during different stages in their careers. One of our more recent “Accounting Alumni” featured in this issue is Nichole. Once again, Professor Matijas-Czolowski proudly put us in touch with one of her former students.

Following graduation from CCC, Nichole attended Le Moyne College graduating with honors in 2007 with a B.S. in Accounting. In 2006 while at Le Moyne, she received the NYSSCPA (New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants) Syracuse Chapter Academic Achievement Award. She also received the New York State Society of Certified Public Accountants Award in 2007.

Heidi L. Huddleston Cross, RN, MSN, FNP-BC, CWOCN, ’97

When our Alumni Association became aware that Janette Brust received the Alumni Service Award from the University of Minnesota, School of Public Health, it soon became obvious that there was more than meets the eye about this alumna. The University of Minnesota Alumni Service Award recognizes outstanding alumni for their exceptional volunteer commitment and leadership to the Alumni Association and the University. Janny is described as “the alumni volunteer every institution hopes for.” As president of the school’s Alumni Association, she played a major role in strengthening the mentoring program, mentoring fifteen SPH students herself. She has helped to make the University a key partner on the Minnesota Public Health Policy forum. Brust also serves on the school’s Council of Past Presidents and received two SPH Community Partner Star awards.

Janette earned her B.A. in Psychology from the University of California-Davis and her M.P.H., Public Health Administration, from the University of Minnesota-Twin Cities. Currently, she is the Director of Medical Policy and Community Affairs at the Minnesota Council of Health Plans, a trade association for Minnesota’s non-profit health plans. She is the Minnesota affiliate representative for the American Public Health Association and the chair of the Great Lakes Chapter, as well as past president of the Minnesota Public Health Association (MPHA). She has served for the past six years as a co-principal investigator on the CDC-funded “Controlling Asthma in American Cities” grant and as vice chair of the Minnesota Department of Health’s Healthy Kids Steering Committee. In 2005, Janny received the Albert Justus Chelsey Leadership Award from MPHA. Previously, Brust was the Vice President of Public Health at the Allina Health System; an epidemiologist for the city of Minneapolis; and a research fellow at the University of Minnesota, School of Public Health, Maternal and Child Health. She has published and presented on a wide variety of health topics, including gun violence, access to care, and community benefits, to name a few. Alumna Janny Dwyer Brust shared, “I started at ACC as a fresh graduate with no clue about what I might do with my life. I found my way slowly and have worked steadily at things I care about.” She notes that she is always struck by what great careers ACC/CCC alumni have had. She met her husband, George D. Brust ’68, while attending ACC. He received his grad degree from Stanford, which had quite a different level of success.”

William D. Stuart ’74

Many of us have heard the sentiment William “Bill” Stuart felt when he was fresh out of high school: “I was young and didn’t have a clue what I wanted to do with my life, or how I would ever achieve any level of success.” Fortunately, the time he spent at ACC helped him to not only “get a clue” but he came out knowing what he wanted to do with his life!” Since then, Bill has accomplished a great many things.

When Bill acknowledges that he had some great professors while attending ACC, one in particular made the real difference – Professor of Markens Brust Love. Stuart admits that he even missed some ‘Happy Hours’ at Curley’s because he didn’t want to miss class: “this marketing thing really captured my interest.”

Following graduation from ACC, Bill went to Albany State where he graduated cum laude with a degree in Marketing. Over the past 37 years, he rose to the level of senior vice president for two major U.S. retailers before starting his own consulting company in 1995. He is the CEO of Stuart & Associates Inc., a leader in sales and leadership development for retailers and manufacturers. In its founding, Bill’s company has helped some of the largest corporations in the world (P&G, Micros, Hoover, Philips Consumer Electronics, Best Buy, etc.) develop and launch new products. He and his company have shown their clients how to drive revenues and bring more of the profit to the bottom line.

Bill currently lives in Franklin, TN with his wife. They have three sons. The oldest is out on his own “making a name for himself,” and his twins are in college. “I have had a great life,” Bill shares. He and his wife have seen the world, something he never thought could have happened. They love to ski, cruise and travel. He enjoys cycling, flying RC planes and collectible street rods. Bill writes that his life has turned out so much better than he could have ever dreamed, “the angel on my shoulder” was a marketing class he took 36 years ago from a guy who cared enough to give his students his best. “Thank you, Professor Lovell.”

His advice to today’s students is simple: “Never give up on your dreams. Whatever you may have made be, no matter what others might think or say. Remember this: There is only one person who stands between you and success, and that’s the person you look at in the mirror every morning!” Bill invites you to check out the company’s website at www.bettersales.com.

Janette I. ‘Janny’ (Dwyer) Brust, MPH ’68

What an interesting life alumna Heidi Huddleston Cross ’97 has led! From her childhood living in Salzburg, Austria (and having a few cameos shots in the Sound of Music as she doubled for the Brigitte Von Trapp character), to her marriage to Richard Burton and Julie Andrews on Broadway, to her remark-

100% NCLEX Passing Rate for 2011 Nursing Graduates

The Nursing program’s Class of 2011 achieved a 100 per cent passing rate on the National Council Licensure Exam (NCLEX), surpassing the 84% New York State and 88% national passing rates. “We are thrilled with these results,” said Professor and Nursing Program Director Linda Alfieri. “Cayuga has a rich history of graduating exemplary nurses, and the Class of 2011 continues our tradition of excellence.”

The Nursing Club participated in the 10th annual RISE and Walk fundraiser for breast cancer. About 300 people made the one-mile trip around Loop Road to support local patients and their families. The walk is organized by Stacey A. Petrosino ’94, who founded RISE (Reaching and Inspiring Survivors Everywhere). The club raised $305.25 for the cause.

Focus on Fulton

A Message from the Fulton Campus Dean

Over the past months the Fulton Campus has continued to experience change, with employees and students alike joining in the energetic buzz connected to our pending move this coming fall 2012. At this point the new campus has been designed and construction is well underway. As well, discussions are occurring on many fronts about the furniture and equipment needs of the new campus, how to sequence the move of different departments/services this summer, and what will become of the Broadway Campus after credit operations move. While these dilemmas only seem to generate more questions than answers, they are the type of questions associated with the certainty of attaining a new campus for Fulton students and employees. What a nice problem to have!

And while the logistics and practicalities associated with the Fulton Campus expansion are of critical importance, it is the journey that students and employees are on together right now that keeps us all on our toes. What we hope, plan, and dream about achieving this fall and beyond is made more real by the details, frustrations, and uncertainties we are all managing on a daily basis in the here and now. But, like every journey ... it is the effort and the slogging in the moment that will ultimately make the new campus shine that much brighter once we arrive there this coming fall. To quote American writer Ursula LeGuin, “It is good to have an end to journey towards, but it is the journey that matters in the end.”

Stay tuned!

Life Changer Bet

Spurred on by a New Year's bet with his wife last year, James “Jay” M. Wornick II lost close to 200 pounds on his own by completely overhauling his diet, exercise and lifestyle. A local news story sparked media interest and the couple was asked to appear on Good Morning America. Jay is pictured above with news anchor, Robin Roberts. The appearance led to requests from a number of other nationally-televised shows. Jay is currently enrolled in CCC's Business program. His wife, Angela M. (Doran) Wornick, expects to graduate from the Nursing program this coming May and works as the Fulton Student Activities Coordinator.

Fulton Campus Gives Back

Reporting on some of the results of the activities held on the Fulton campus this past semester, Susan C. Witmer ’90, Director of Fulton Operations, stated that the 2011-2012 United Way pledge drive resulted in 19 staff pledges during the campaign. Sue was also able to collect five large boxes of food that were delivered to the local food pantry. In addition, the Fulton campus PTK was able to send several boxes of clothing, blankets and furniture to the flood victims in the Binghamton area.

Way to go Fulton!

The Rotaract Club's first active semester was a great success, despite not meeting the minimum membership requirement. The club's current seven members raised $120 selling raffle tickets and donated the proceeds to the Fulton Catholic Charities Food Pantry. The members also volunteered at St. Luke’s Nursing Home in Oswego. Pictured presenting the check are Amanda Reed, Rotaract Club Advisor; club members Kiaya Cali and Will Thomas; Catholic Charities representative; and Sean Yanock, club president.

The food and supplies drive for the Oswego City Animal Shelter was a huge success. SGO, The Green Team, and the Literary Club sponsored a holiday tree for the Animal Shelter. The group managed to fill a Dodge mini-van to the brim, as well as the back of Sue Witmer's Subaru Outback. Pictured are officers of the SGO Fulton Executive Board: Tracy Elkin, Secretary; Michelle Yanock, Vice-President; Michael Fochtman, President; and Staci Beechner, Treasurer.

Come to Life on Nuremberg Trials

The world relived the atrocities of Nazi war crimes at the Nuremberg trials in 1945. The events have been depicted in movies and have been taught in world history classes for decades. But an audience at both Cayuga Community College campuses heard the story from a “witness to history.” The firsthand experience of that heinous time was shared with students, faculty, staff and the general public by Father Moritz Fuchs, one of the last surviving participants of that historic time.

A collaboration of CCC’s Criminal Justice, Veterans and History Clubs brought Father Fuchs to campus on December 8. The then twenty-year-old Fuchs was an Army private from Fulton, NY, who was chosen to be the bodyguard for Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson. His mission was to keep Jackson alive, around the clock, through the duration of the trials. This was a daunting task for anyone, much less such a young man recently returned from combat in France and Germany.

Many of our students were unaware of some of the facts surrounding the trial and commented that hearing it from a participant made it come to life. Fuchs discussed the trial and reminded us that of the 24 Nazi defendants, 12 received the death penalty and only three were acquitted. At the conclusion of the hour-long event, the audience was invited to ask questions and have Father Fuchs sign programs.

Fuchs has been featured in documentaries about the trial. His character was depicted in the movie, Nuremberg, starring Alec Baldwin and Christopher Plummer. Eventually, he went on to become a Roman Catholic priest and currently resides in Fulton, NY.

Golden Spartan: Lifelong Educator/Consumer Advocate

Dr. Joseph M. “Joe” Belth, Ph. D. ’58 responded to our invitation to “Golden Spartans” to share their story. Belth was briefly profiled in our Fall/Winter 2010 issue under the caption, “What Alumni Have Done with their Degrees.”

From an expanded biography, we learned that Joe was born and raised in Syracuse, NY. He married Marjorie Lavine in 1955 and decided to attend ACC because of its affordable tuition and proximity. Joe transferred credits to Syracuse University and graduated summa cum laude from ACC and SU’s College of Business Administration the same year. With a fellowship from the S. E. Belth Foundation for Insurance Education, Joe graduated from the University of Pennsylvania’s Graduate School of Arts and Sciences in 1961 with a Ph.D. in Applied Economics with a concentration in insurance.

In 1962, he joined the faculty of the School of Business (now the Kelley School of Business) at Indiana University, Bloomington, and retired in 1993 as professor emeritus of insurance. Active in the American Risk and Insurance Association (ARIA), Belth wrote books on the subject of life insurance and had numerous award-winning articles published in academic journals. He taught and conducted extensive research on deceptive sales practices in the life insurance industry (considered controversial by insurance practitioners at that time). After encountering censorship from trade journals and professional organizations, he began publishing a monthly independent newsletter in 1974 – The Insurance Forum – which is now in its 39th year. Belth received significant accolades for his work. In 1990, he received a Lifetime Achievement Award. In 1991, “The Insurance Forum” was named one of the most influential publications in the insurance industry.

In 1974, Belth was invited to be commencement speaker at ACC, the first alum so honored. In his address, Joe asked students to consider their responsibilities to society. Retired now for 18 years, he and his wife continue to live in their home outside Bloomington, Indiana. They have three children, four grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

An Internet search provided, in the words of the late Paul Harvey, “the rest of the story.” We discovered that Belth’s name is almost synonymous with life insurance. Nationally recognized as one of the foremost authorities and one of the most respected critics of the industry, he has testified before congressional subcommittees and regulatory commissions since the early ‘70s. Joe has been extolled and criticized by colleagues, life insurance executives, and regulators alike. He has witnessed the life insurance industry’s sales practices scandals of the 1990s and the failure of several insurance companies and has remained a steadfast advocate for the average consumer. Over the years, Joe has been quoted extensively by national media and his name continues to appear in the press. Enter the name “Joseph M. Belth” into any search engine and see what you get. Pretty impressive.

Finally, we wish to extend our thanks to Dr. Belth for continuing to remember his alma mater. In 1974, he established an award in memory of his parents, Irving and Helen Belth, which to this day recognizes a graduate for both outstanding scholarship and student citizenship.
